

VoIP Phone Installation

Improve your flexibility without the additional cost - Venom IT will install online telephone capabilities to increase accessibility and operational capacity.

VoIP will allow you to make calls using your PC or laptop to clients both at home and abroad without enduring high costs

Voice over Internet Protocol, popularly known as VoIP makes audio-communication over the internet possible.

VoIP increases your flexibility and mobility whilst mitigating the costs of expensive phone calls. In essence, VoIP will allow you to make calls using your computer to clients both at home and abroad without enduring high costs.

Companies who do the majority of their business over the phone can run up large bills, especially if they have a large number of foreign clients. VoIP does not run up these expensive bills so it is a great way of keeping costs down.

At Venom IT we are not tied down to one particular VoIP provider; this enables us to set up the most relevant provider for you.

We will integrate software programs to give you the capability to access other applications and use the internet whilst having telephone conversations. This will help you and your employees to multi-task without interruptions.

As well as the costs savings, there are also many other benefits of using VoIP to conduct business. VoIP enables you to call anonymously if you wish, ensuring that you're not pestered with future sales calls from companies that trap inbound call data.

You are also able to make calls from wherever you are to anywhere in the world as long as you have an internet connection.

You can conduct business meetings with clients and potential clients from all around the world over VoIP.
